AWAKE PARTICIPANT AGE REPORT

The AWAKE Program engages with both youth and adults. From the data collected, most students referred to the program are within the high-risk age demographic of ages 14 to 17, with a few instances of students over the age of 18 due to being held back or lack of status of last known completed grade.

The initial success of the program is gaged by the attendance rates of our scheduled sessions and events. Each session begins and ends with an accountability oath that allows each student to take ownership of their participation and engagement throughout the program. As a second measurement of success, we utilize direct feedback surveys from students and staff rating the impact of the AWAKE Program. These surveys capture the level of engagement the student is giving and receiving from the program and mentoring sessions.

HECTOR

MOST AMBITIOUS AWAKE STUDENT

A one year participant in the AWAKE program, Hector's first introduction to the AWAKE program was at a community partner event where our lead instructor was able to sit down one-on-one with him about his future. Hector was very discouraged and vocal about feeling hopeless as he was already on an alternative school track due to being severely behind in his school work and involved with a local gang. Our team went into immediate action setting up one-on-one to show him how to set his goals for completing his work and techniques on how to hold himself accountable. In a three week span, Hector worked consistently with his AWAKE mentor and was able to catch up on all his classwork. Hector graduated High School in 2021.

MOST IMPROVED AWAKE STUDENT

Edwin was a two year participant in the AWAKE program and AWAKE training. Edwin was one of our highest degree juvenile cases from the Harris County gang unit. At the beginning of his journey, Edwin was quiet, reserved and out of shape. It was inspiring to watch Edwin evolve during his time with AWAKE. Once unengaged, unmotivated to walking confidently into any room looking for someone to spark a conversation with. He quickly became a peer leader in the program, standing up in front of a crowd at AWAKE events speaking to the audience about how AWAKE has positively impacted his life and changed his mindset. Edwin changed his future when he graduated high school in 2021 and accepted a scholarship to play basketball at a community college in West Texas.

CONCLUSION OF REPORTS

Children and youth tend to follow a path towards delinquent and criminal behavior rather than engaging randomly in it. Individuals whose antisocial behavior begins in early childhood are two to three times more likely to commit more severe and violent repeat offenses than youth whose delinquent behaviors begin in adolescence. Early intervention prevents the onset of delinquent behavior and supports the development of a youth's assets and resilience. It also decreases rates of recidivism by a significant 16% when youth do go on to engage with the justice system.

Many adults end up cycling in and out of jail without ever receiving the help they need. People with mental health problems are often put in solitary confinement, have limited access to counseling, and are left unmonitored due to constant staffing shortages. Within three years of their release, two out of three former prisoners are rearrested and more than 50% are incarcerated again. Prisoners who participate in education programs have a 43% lower chance of being reincarcerated than those who do not, and for every dollar spent on prison education, the government saves four to five dollars on the costs of reincarceration.

The AWAKE Program's emphasis on recidivism prevention is key to an ever-growing cycle within the juvenile detention system. Our unique curriculum focuses on character building and life-skills development. AWAKE is delivered on-site as an in-class mentoring series and as a fitness training component led by Brandon Johnson. The in-class series topics are tailored to educate students through relatable real-life experiences that impact and show them that by changing their mindset they can change their futures.
